ConocoPhillips Colombia donated food and household cleaning products to families located in the operations area of the company

Bogotá, Colombia – ConocoPhillips Colombia donated packages of food and household cleaning products to more than 200 families located in Pita Limon and Cuatro Bocas in the municipality of San Martín, Cesar.

The company accounted for the total number of families located in these communities to ensure that no one would be left without receiving this benefit. ConocoPhillips Colombia understands the difficult situation generated by the COVID-19 pandemic and its social and economic impacts on the communities. Despite not having current operational activities in the area, the company contributed this humanitarian aid on the principle of being a good neighbor.

The packages included non-perishable food, regional basic food items and cleaning supplies. These elements were organized and packaged following strict safety protocols necessary for safe handling during preparation, transport, and delivery.

About 500 people, are expected to benefit from this donation. The Mayor's Office of San Martín and other community leaders monitored the delivery of the packages, thus ensuring compliance with biosecurity measures to guarantee the health of the people.

For ConocoPhillips Colombia this type of cooperative effort between authorities and company has a single purpose – to benefit and support those who need it most. "This is an important donation for our company, which will benefit the populations of the rural area in the municipality of San Martín. Thanks to the coordination with community leaders and authorities, together we can make a real impact on the well-being of families, and especially the children who are the future," said José Salazar, Environmental and Social Advisor for ConocoPhillips Colombia.

The community expressed gratitude for receiving this support during the COVID-19 mandatory lockdown. "From the entire community we want to thank ConocoPhillips. We look forward to better times for everyone in the future," said Maria Isabel Suarez, a member of the Pita Limón community.

In this way, ConocoPhillips Colombia continues to show its support for the communities in the area where we operate, so that we can continue working together for the common benefit.
